'The positive changes we have seen the Futures programme have on our students is unbelievable. We have had students who have been on a reduced timetable now back on full timetables, students managing their emotions so much better, and students who would not attend certain lessons now not only attending these lessons, but actively thrive in them. We will continually work with Brightstar to further support all those students who need the extra help, and show them that they are able to achieve'.

Boxing, mentoring and education

The Brightstar Futures programme uses boxing, education and mentoring to help young people who are struggling in school to thrive. Brightstar are dedicated to driving achievement and positive behaviour change to every young person that is referred to us.

Boxing

We have found the boxing element can have a huge impact on regulating emotions as well as showing young people they can thrive and build strong positive relationships

Mentoring

The mentoring looks at a cognitive behaviour approach to supporting the young person as part of a group and one to one throughout the day.

Education

The education combines functional skills with practice-based qualifications.

Supporting every young person

We work with small groups of 8-12 and have 2 support staff minimum with each group. The staff have lived experience and are relatable to the young people. They use a trauma informed approach and as a provision we have seen incredible changes.

Brightstar locations across the West Midlands

The provision is 9:30-2:30 and there are various locations in Shropshire, Telford, Wolverhampton, Hereford and the West Midlands where this takes place.

Schools can refer a young person for just 1 day a week (more days are available if needed) and we will work in partnership with the school to support this young person.

Each young person will be given free membership to Brightstar in the evening too.

You can refer young people at any point during the term so we are able to react quickly and when needed to support them.

'This course has made me have a completely different focus. Before the Futures programme I had no purpose in life, I didn't feel comfortable in my own body, and I wanted everything to change about myself.'

Mentoring

Mentoring is a key part of the Futures programme, working with every young person to support their individual needs. These sessions focus on the following:

Thoughts, feelings and behaviours

Control

Values

Goal setting

Conflict management

Triggers

Role models

Positive relationships

Comfort zone

Core beliefs

'Brightstar feels like a second home to me, the only other place I can be myself'.

MY TRIGGER POINT

What thoughts or feelings are you experiencing?

How does your body react?

What is your response?

Thinking about your trigger points when it comes to conflict can help you manage future conflict much better.

In this exercise, think about any recent conflict and how you responded.

How do you feel after you've responded?

What could the people do differently?

YOUR RESPONSE
How can you respond differently?

WHAT VALUES DO GOOD ROLE MODELS HAVE?

The people I look up to are:

MAKING THE RIGHT DECISION

SCENARIO	RESPONSE 1	RESPONSE 2	CHOSEN RESPONSE	WHY DID YOU CHOOSE THIS RESPONSE?

Reporting

Robust, accurate reporting is central to Futures.

Communication is key to creating a holistic approach to supporting the young person. At Brightstar we have 2 training designated safeguarding leads and we work in partnership with a number of organisations to create a child centred supporting base.

- Each week the staff will create a report around each young person.
- This will feed into a half termly report that will be shared with the school so teachers can understand and further support that young person.
- Free training will also be available where needed on how teachers can support the young person wider and some of the methods used.

We will also be collecting before and after surveys, where the impact will be measured and the impact assessment will be shared with you at the end of the term
